Association Meeting at Chicago To-day -National League to Perfect "Three-Cir-cuit" Plan-Where Wagner's Players Go -Yale Athletics on a Business Basis.

According to present plans, this will be an important week in the doings of the baseball men. To-day the promoters of the new American Association, which failed to organize at Philadelphia two weeks ago, will meet at Chicago to decide whether they can make their venture a go or not. The National League men say that the betting is 5 to 1 that the whole scheme will go up in smoke. So confident are the Leaguers that the Quin-Anson-McGraw arrangement will not go through that they will hold a meeting in this city themselves this week, when they hope to reduce the circuit and fully establish the three-league scheme, which has been mapped out for several months. With a monopoly of this sort, the League men say that the territory will be sufficiently well guarded against the encroachments of hostile promoters such as the men behind the new association have been pronounced. Appended is the up-to-date scheme for the three leagues:

Eastern. National. Milwaukee. Boston. Brooklyn. Washington. Baltimore, New York. Buffalo. Philadelphia, Providence Cleveland. Worcester. Kansas City. Chicago Syracuse. Cincinnati. Indianapolis, Louisville. . St. Louis. Toronto. St. Paul.

It will be noticed that the big League keeps all of its own territory, the Eastern being shut out of Philadelphia and the Western out of Chicago. The two minor league presidents, Powers and Johnson, are powerless to bring about any other allotment, as Brush and his co-workers hold the reins and will not let go.

Following the news that the Washington Club has sold Outfielder Freeman and Pitcher Dineen to the Boston Club, comes an authentic statement from J. Earl Wagner that he has also disposed of the services of Infielder Barry to Boston, the other Washington players being Pitcher and Third Baseman Mercer, to New York; Shortstop Padden and Centrefielder Slagle, to Chicago; Outfielder O'Brien, to St. Louis, and First Baseman McGann, to Pittsburg.

Shortstop Padden and Centrefielder Slagle, to Chicago: Outfielder O'Brien, to St. Louis, and First Baseman Mediann, to Pittsburg.

Wagner says that Kittridge, Weyling, and McFarland have also been spoken for, but he will not tell what club is to get their services. Wagner also admits that he has practically sold out to the League and that he will be at the head of an Eastern League club at Washington this year unless local capitalists want to take such a franchise off his hands. Wagner's price for getting out of the circuit has been $40,500 since the December meeting of the League, but that has merely been a bluff. He will receive about $20,000 to withdraw, will receive the privilege of selling his players to the highest bidders, as he has already done, and will take a franchise in the Eastern League, which has been ready for him for some time past. With Louisville and Cleveland already out, it remains to be seen what the League can do with Baltimore, which apparently holds the key to the situation. As THE Sus has already pointed out, the circuit cannot be reduced to eight clubs as long as H. R. Von der Horst of Baltimore stands in the way. He will not be outvoted by his three partners, no matter how long he sticks to his determination to keep Baltimore in the League circuit. THE Sus is a authorized to say that when Baltimore sells out and thereby clinches the eight-club circuit, it will be with the unanimous consent of the stockholders.

Were it not for the constant threats fired out by Freedman, Von der Horst would have shown more tractability long ago. But the bitterness of the New York club Fresident and his desire to rub the Baltimoreans deep into the dust, has caused such friction that even the joily Robison has failed to convince Yon der Horst that it is for the welfare of the League to bow to the will of Freedman. Therefore the question naturally arises, What can be done to shift Yon der Horst? If his Brooklyn partners and Robison cannot do it, who can? Possibly the "good mister" brush might be able to

When the League menget down to minor details, it may be of interest to them to know that the New York Baseball Club received more than $14,000 last fall from the Columbia University Football Association for the use of Manhattan Field; also the the minimizer. decided to lease this field for a term of years for an annual rental of $15,000. It will be remembered that among the demands made by the New York club upon the League last December was one that the magnates should assume the rent of Manhattan Field, $12,500, which has been paid in the past by the local club simply to keep opposition leagues out of this city, several of the magnates were willing to assume this financial burden, but now that the Columbia football men have jumped in ahead of them, the matter will probably be overlooked by the League.

The possibility of seeing Jeffries and Corbett fight at Coney Island instead of San Francisco has caused widespread satisfaction among local sporting men who want to look at the struggle, and judge for themselves whether it is on the level or not. George Considine, manager of Corbett, is indignant over the report that the fight is a fake, and says that in his estimation Corbett will show beyond a doubt that Jeffries is overrated.

"There's no fake in it," said Considine yesterday, "and that's why I want to have the fight decided in the East. If we fought in California and Corbett should win, I know there would be a lot of talk by persons who are always ready to throw mud. But with the men in the ring at Coney Island in the presence of 10,000 persons, I am sure that no lody can make a charge of fake that will be at all heeded. Corbett will surprise the public and Jeffries, else I know nothing about the ability of first-class puglists. As a marter of fact I have heard nobody of any prominence say that the proposed fight is not to be on the square." The possibility of seeing Jeffries and Corbett

It was most encouraging to the Graduate Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, Francis S. Bangs of Columbia, Thomas S. Reath of University of Pennsylvania and Frederick D. Colson of Cornell, in their efforts to initiate an American Henley, to learn from President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California that a crew from the Far West will measure ears with the eastern institutions at the Poughkeepsie regatin in 1101, It is fair to predict that in a few years, the event will achieve national reputation. The committee has decided that the distance of single scull and pair-oared rares this year shall be one mile and a half. They will not be held, however, unless there are at least three entries by May 15. Richard Armstrong, Yalo '95, has accepted the invitation to act as referee. The date of the regatta has not as yet been determined.

Lipschuetz and Richardson met at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday afternoon in six games. They decided to play two games weekly, the first one next Sunday afternoon and the other on the following Wednesday night. The time limit agreed upon is forty moves for the first two hours and afterward

YACHTING.

Two Forty-Six Footers to Be Built by the BRISTOL, Feb. 11.-Beside the seventy-foot class of yachts, there is to be another smaller one for 1900. The forty-six foot class is tolbe revived, though in a radically different model rig from that which was brought out in the Gloriana and other noted racers of the size. Work has already been begun on the first of this class, two orders having been placed some weeks ago by members of the New York Yacht Club. The boats are to be of composite build with steel frames and wooden planking. The Gloriana had wooden frames when she was constructed in 1891. The first of the new class is being built in the shop and almost in the space on which Columbia took shape last year. The outlines of the new model differ materially from those of the Gloriana. Deadwood is shied away to a considerable extent, in the fulness of the bilge is not carried out so far toward the bow and the stern as was the policy in designing the Gloriana. The forebody is not nearly as full and will show a sharpness when viewed from dead ahead that will remind one of the Beverly class of racers of

Although the first of the new class is of the keel type, she has flat bilges and at the first view it would seem that she was a centreboarder. The Gloriana was 45 feet 3 inches on the water line and 70 feet over all. The new boats will practically have these dimen-Minneapolis. | sions. Speculations vary as to whether these

The second of the fleet of seventy-foot cutters that was launched on last Tuesday morning for ex-Commodore E. D. Morgan is now lying moored to a buoy in the harbor and presents a handsome appearance. This boat was launched without a name being painted on her stern, which is somewhat of a rarity. Like the Mineola, she has six hatches and a set skylight on her deck. Tarpaulins of canvas cover each. She is yet high out of the water, and will be until spars, rigging and sails put her down. The deck, instead of having depressed metal waterways, extends out on each side flush with the inner edge of the rail. Work on the third of the fleet of seventy-foot cutters has begun. The lead keel was successfully moulded in the south construction shop, where the Columbia was built.

A new racing sloop is under construction for C. H. Foote of Crown Point, N. Y. She will appear on Lake Champlain in the spring.
Preparations are being made for the construction of a thirty-six-foot centreboard sloop to be built of mahogany in the north shop. This boat will draw only three feet of water. She will have lead shoeing on her keel. Her over-all length will be upward of fifty feet. She will have a good wide beam with a very flat floor.

Dr. Walter B. Peet is putting the Columbia crew candidates through the traces of mastering the details of the new stroke. The men have taken to the long reach toward the stern of the boat and the shorter feather, but there is considerable jerking on the recovery and the water catch is too hard, which will tend to make the shell hang between strokes. As yet Peet has not used sliding seats, his object being to perfect the stroke before the cvils of slide rushing are encountered. The candidates nave been divided into squads, each of which contains former parsmen for the direction of the new men. The squads are as follows:

Varsity Boat-First-Armstead. Cromwell, Holland, Lieb, Snyder, Van Kleeck, A. Weeks and Wylle, Sconni-McKenna, Court. Eyer, Glieve, Lederman, Jackson, Pickhardt, C. H. Smith and Capt. Mackay. Third-Vulte. Southack. Willis, Bateson, Bowne, Burt, Fradley and Fisk, stroke of the '99 freshman

on Saturday night between R. J. Schweppe of the Yale Navy and John Satonatall of the Harvard Navy to complete arrangements for the annual boat race, which will be held at Naw London on June 28. The question of keeping the course clear of boats during the race occupied much attention. In speaking of the meeting Schweppe said to-night:

"Last year it was with great difficulty that the crews were able to complete the race, as several steamers and small pleasure craft got in the course just near the finish. While it is true that the Government officials did everything they could to keep the course clear, yet the torpedo hoats were too large to get around without much difficulty. This year we believe the only thing to do is to get two or three little naphtha launches and place harbor police on them and let them patrol the course did not have the race. Any person who in any way interiers with the race will be severely dealt with."

Schweppe further stated that the other arrangements for the race had been settled and that W. H. Meikleham had consented to officiate as referee. Julian W. NEW TRAINING IDEAS AT YALE, Jim Robinson Has Over Two Hundred Men Trying for the Track Team.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 11 .- Trainer Jim Robinson of the Yale track team has inaugurated new ideas in the preliminary training of the candidates. In the first place the men, when called out two weeks ago, were not asked to stop smoking immediately, but were told to smoke less and less each day until the habit was entirely broken off. Indoor running has been to a great extent done away with, the idea being that the running on hard boards is injurious to the muscles of a man's leg and stiffens them considerably. Instead, the squad of over 200, the largest number ever in training at once at Yale, has been separated into three divisions. These are in charge of C. E. Ordway, 1900; H. M. Poynter, 1900; H. P. Smith and H. Speer, 1900. Each division takes a run every afternoon. Every one is compelled to dress warmly and to have his legs covered with heavy golf stockings and golf trousers. The men are not allowed to run on the sidewalks, but keep in the middle of the road in order to get as soft a and 8 to play. footing as possible.

At present it is hard to see how Yale can develop a team strong enough to win from Harvard in the Mott Haven games, to say nothing of the intercollegiates in New York. Blount, who won the "hundred" in the Harvard games last year, is still in college, and should be faster than ever this year. Dupee, who went as second man in the "hundred" to Eng-be faster than ever this year. Dupee, who went as second man in the "hundred" to England last year, is just recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, and will probably be unable to run in the spring. Dixon Boardman, a sophomore, will be Yale's mainstay in the 220 and 440-yard runs. Boardman as a freshman had had little experience, but with the experience gained from his running of last year should come very near winning both of his events in the Mott. Haven and intercollegiate games. Gleason, Luce and Brennan are the other men who have won points in the quarter-mile, and should do something this year. In the half-mile run Adams, who broke the college record last year, says that he will not run again, but in spite of this fact the half-mile will be one of Yale's strongest events. H. P. Smith, who has hitherto been a one-mile runner, will compete in the half-mile this year. He has made it in better time than the Yale record in practice. Brennan, a Shef senior, is also strong in this event, and Ordway, 1900, who won the event two years ago in the Harvard games, will be a factor if his leg in which he broke a tendon last year is strong enough to run on.

In the one mile Yale has lost two very valuable men by graduation, Soitzer and Clyde. Speer, who beat Dick Grant so easily two years ago, will run again, as will also Smith. Chittenden, a sophomore, is a man from whom much is expected in the distance runs also. In the hurdles, in which Yale has always been strong, she will be lamentably weak this year. Fincke, the football quarterback, who gave Fox such a close rub last year at the Mott Haven games, is the only man who at present shows promise of winning anything for Yale in this event. He should win in the high hurdles from Hallowell of Harvard. There are no other men who at the present time show any indication of ability in either of the hurdles, except perhaps Cheney and Meade. In the broad jump Trainer Robinson will try to develop several fairly promising men. Cheney and Chisholm, who were both novices is a man from whom much is expected if Hobinson can teach him to combine his spring with a good preliminary run.

In the weight events Yale will be strong.
Fred Beck, who has heretofore always been under the faculty ban, will undoubtedly compete this year. He can put the shot forty-four feet and can throw the hammer about one hundred and forty feet. Robertson and Francis should both of them be able to reach forty feet with the shot this spring. Brown and Stillman, the football guard and tackle, will try the hammer and should be fair at it.
Yale has no one who at present seems able to win even a third place in high jump. In the pole vault Capt, Johnson, Adriance and Hord have all done cleven feet or better, and so should be able to make a complete sweep of this event. It is, of course, too early to tell what material there is in the freshman class from which to develop point winners, but from such a large number of men it seems probable that a tew good men can be developed.

MORE RECORDS BY VARDON

HE AGAIN SHOWS GRAND GOLFING AT LAURENCE HARBOR.

In a Match With Freeland the Champion Scores an 81 After Going the First Round in 38-Also a Winner in a Foursome With Armstrong Over Cox and Singer.

Harry Vardon took part in a single and a foursome at the Laurence Harbor Country Club yesterday, in the way of practice for today's match when he tackles the best ball of the club's picked amateurs, and he again gave an impressive exhibition of his golfing skill, In the single match Vardon went out in 38 and he made the second round in 43, the totals being new records for the links at nine and eighteen holes. In the foursome George E. Armstrong of the Staten Island Cricket and Baseball Club was his partner, and the opponents Charles S. Cox of the Fairfield County Golf Club and Mortimer M. Singer of Laurence Harbor. Vardon and Armstrong won by 9 up As on Saturday the holes were simply tins inserted in the best spots to be picked out on the fair greens, at the approximate distances but it is expected that the rolled and sanded earth greens will be used to-day. Vardon putted with the mid-iron, and to-day, if he will be able to use the putter, a still more dazzling series of threes and fours will be recorded than marked to-day's card. The amateurs of the club are now enthusiastic upholders of the English champion and not one will commit himself to a limited estimate of what Vardon may do if pushed in any match. The single was played in the morning, against William Freeland, President of the Laurance Harbor Club. It was on even terms. Aithough Vardon made the first round in 38, Freeland halved three of the holes. He won the first hole setting out on the second round, through a long put, in 5 to 6, Vardon's similar attempt to haive failing to get down. The latter won the next hole and he was again 6 up, and, as two halved holes in fours followed, the professional had

If the weather is fine a good many visitors are expected to follow the match to-day. John M. Ward, who is to be M. M. Singer's partner in the morning, and H. C. Villepigue, who is to be with Singer in the afternoon, were both on the links for practice yesterday. Villepigue played with Stewart Gairdner, the Lenox professional who came to this country lest summer from Troon, Scotland, where Fernie could give to him only one stroke in eighteen holes. Villepigue said that Gairdner was if anything a longer driver than Vardon, but not so accurate. The match will be at thirty-six holes, the first half to start on the arrival of the S:30 o'clock train from the foot of Liberty street. The trains to-day will arrive and depart from a special station on the links, not at Morgan station as usual. If the weather is fine a good many visitors

WITH THE HARNESS HORSES. Two Inches of Mud on the Speedway-N. T. A. Congress This Week.

A signal flag at Seventh avenue and 110th street, showing the condition of the Speedway. would have been appreciated yesterday by those who drive and those who go on foot to the popular driveway to watch the flyers. With clearing skies and spring-like warmth in the air the usual Sunday morning throng made the long journey up to the speeding ground only to find it a mortar bed of sloppy yellow mud from one side to the other. Between the hours of 11 o'clock in the morning and 1 o'clock in the afternoon an almost continuous line of light harness turnouts flied-up the 155th street viaduct and turned the corner to go down the hill to the soft earth road. The trotters were booted and rigged for the fray, everybody apparently expecting to find the footing in condition for speeding. Many of the disappointed ones turned back when they came to the mud, and were content to jog their horses over the macadamized streets of Harlem and the driveways of Central Park.

Others kept on up the road through the mire, expecting to find the north end in better shape than the lower section. Still others took to the expecting to find the north end in better shape than the lower section. Still others took to the Boulevard Lafayette and Fort Washington avenue, better known as the French Boulevard and the Ridge road, and by this circuitous route reached Dyckman street at the northern terminus of the Speedway. Here the new macadam tempted some of the drivers to cut their horses loose and there were several brushes over the gravel surface. But few men who drove really high-class trotters cared to start them up. Among these who went over this part of the road were:

H. C. F. Koch and Edward Koch, driving a docktailed trotter to a light park trap; H. O. Armour, with Biancroft and Erin G.; J. P. Baiter, driving Clayton, 2:154; John F. Cockerill, with Swift, 2:164; George W. Grote, with James L. 2:004; F. G. Schmidt, with the black trotter Wilbur, 2:124; John K. Keim, with the big brown pacing mare Sister Budd. Frederick White, with a pair of gray trotters. Thomas Lynch, with his new trotter, Burley B. by Sir Walter, Dr. J. F. Moore, with a pair of black horses; C. M. Meer, with the brown trotter Percy, 2:174; J. Blackburn Miller, with the brown trotter Percy, 2:174; J. Blackburn Miller, with the brown trotter Quadrica 2:084; S. F. Paul, with the black trotter Alrich, 2:124; and Melville C. Boynton, with his gray trotting mare Brunhilde, 2:154.

Another noted trotter out was the bay gelding Major, 2:11, by Don McGregor. This horse hails from Chicago, where he has figured prominently on the Speedway at Washington Park ever since his turi career ended in 1894. He was formerly owned by Montgomery Ward and now belongs to C. W. Marks, who sold the crack pacing stallion, Joe Patchen, 2:015, last year Major was driven yesterday by W. H. McCarthy.

Thomas Lynch, owner of the fast trotting mare Dark Seeret, by Sablehurst, drove a new crack pacing stallion, Joe Patchen, 2:013, Inst year Major was driven yesterday by W. H. McCarthy.

Thomas Lynch, owner of the fast trotting mare Dark Secret, by Sablehurst, drove a new one in the big bay gelding Burley B. by Sir Walter, the son of Aberdeen. Although green at the business this horse held his own with some of the best ones on the Speedway last December, showing a fine turn of speed.

Charles C. Lloyd has bought of V. D. Palmer of Akron, Ohio, the black trotter Malzour, 2:15%, by Elyria, to drive on the Speedway. Lloyd was the chestnut trotter Richard B. 2:21%, by Elyria, and he bought the black house to match the chestnut. Malzour is a handsome, high-styled trotter that never breaks and that has won ten races during the last two campaigns. The price paid for the new trotter was $2.250.

Delegates to the twentieth congress of the N. T. A. will meet at the Murray Hill Hotel on Wednesslay, pursuant to the call recently sent out by President P. P. Johnston. The most important matter likely to come up for decision concerns the agreement reached at the recent conference of officials of the N. T. A. and A. T. A. in this city, providing for closer reciprocal relations between the two organizations. It is expected that the recommendations of the conference will be ratified by the congress without much opposition. They are to be first passed upon by the Rule Committee in secret session, after which the report of the committee will go before the members in open session. Congressman J. W. Bailey of Texas, who is an extensive breader of trotting horses, will come over from Washington to act as a member of the Rule Committee.

FLYING FOX MAY BE SOLD Along With the Other Horses of the Duke

ney and other prominent patrons of the turf are desirous of securing the last English Derby winner, the following items from the Field will doubtless interest American horsemen:

from the lamented death of the Duke of Westminster is that Mornington Cannon, one of the best race riders in the United Kingdom, has found a new master in the Prince of Wales, who has now the first claim upon his equestrian services. Every well-wisher to the turf will hope that his Royal Highness will be so fortunate as shortly to own a racehorse of the same ealiber as Flying Fox, upon whom Morn-after that time cannot possibly be counted on now.

Should he, like Bend Or, Ormonde and Orme, get a great celebrity in his earliest days of studiffe, his future would be assured; but if a horse's first two crops of foals do not produce a big winner he very quickly declines in public favor, and gets few more chances of picked mares. That Flying Fox—whether he changes hands or not—may run in the Ascot Cup is what we hope, and under any circumstances we trust he may be kept in training for at least another season. Beside the crack, there will be plenty of the stud which are well worth buying, and, notably, we are told that the two-year-olds now at Kingselere are most promising.

year-olds who furnished such a sensational one-mile contest at Oasland on Thursday, when Brude won by a nose from Advance Guard in 1:30%, had another struggle for supremacy yesterday. Seven thousand persons saw Foster's Yellow Tail wit by a neck in 1:30%, Advance Guard to-day carried 11.7 pounds, same as on Thursday. Brode also carried 11.7 pounds, an increase of three, while Yellow Tail was in with only 110, or seven pounds off.

The other winners included Count Hubert, Dr. Sheppard, Go to Bed and Siy. Dr. Sheppard won all the way in the McLaughlin selling stakes, doing the mile and sixteenth in 1:46.

It is more probable, however, that the Kingsclere stable will not soon recover from the loss which it has sustained in the Duke of Westminster, and that Mornington Cannon will never again serve so successfuly, and justly successful, a first master. The Duke was not only the finest judge of horses and of scientific breeding that these islands contained, but as an all-around sportsman he was without a peer in the world. There seems to be a very general opinion that Flying Fox will charge hands when the stud of the late Duke of Westminster comes to the hammer in March. No doubt a very high reserve will be placed on the son of Orme and Vampire, but there is always a class of owner who coveds such properties, and we have little doubt but that £30,000 will be forthcoming. Of course, the reserve may be even higher than the sum just mentioned, but it must be remembered that the horse has no engagements beyond those recently made for him in the Epsom and Ascot cups, and therefore no great sum is likely to accrue to the purchaser. What the stud value of such a horse may be it is no easy matter to determine. Cyllene has a full subscription for two years at 150 guineas, and we think that Flying Fox would fill at a larger fee than has been asked for Mr. Rose's horse. Still, he could hardly earn more than £5,000 a year, and not more than £5,000 a year, and searnings after that time cannot possibly be counted on now.

Should he like Bend Or, Ormonde and Orme, get a great celebrity in his earnings after that time cannot possibly be counted on now.

There is abundant promise that the coaster brake idea when fully developed will be entitled to be idea when fully developed will be entitled to be called revolutionary in so far as pedalling is concerned. The improvements in this direction are being made every day. The latest is a bolt by means of which the coaster and brake mechanism can be made incorrative and the machine ridden as one with fixed pedal action. There are coasters without brakes and brakes without the "free wheel" combination, all operative by back pedaling. The inventive activity in this direction encourages the belief that eventually there will be a compound device that may be used for braking only, coasting only or for both, or which may be made inoperative at the pleasure of the rider. Then all should be satisfied.
